HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 52

A JOINT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF MONTANA REQUESTING AN INTERIM STUDY OF STATE GOVERNANCE AND FINANCING OF MONTANA'S POSTSECONDARY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL CENTERS.

WHEREAS, the five postsecondary vocational-technical centers are recognized as vital components of the Montana education system; and

WHEREAS, the governance of the centers is currently fragmented among the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Legislature, and local high school boards of trustees; and

WHEREAS, financing for the centers is in increasing jeopardy because federal funding is diminishing, because the Legislature is reluctant to increase funding when there is no unified method of accountability, and because the local school boards are having difficulty promoting local property tax funding for both the centers and for elementary and secondary education; and

WHEREAS, a statewide system of governance and funding has the potential for creating a more efficient postsecondary vocational-technical education system for addressing the funding crisis and meeting the demand for well-trained workers who can contribute to Montana's economic development; and

WHEREAS, prior to and during the 1985 regular legislative session, the many interested parties spent significant time and effort developing and considering options for state governance and funding for the postsecondary vocational-technical centers, but the Legislature could not achieve a consensus on this complex issue.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF MONTANA:

That an appropriate interim committee be assigned to study:

- (1) various governance structures for vocational-technical education;
- (2) the funding needs and sources for postsecondary vocational-technical centers;
- (3) curriculum evaluation to meet changing educational needs; and
- (4) concerns arising from state governance, such as employee rights, state assumption of facilities, and program coordination and development.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the committee report the findings of the study to the 50th Legislature and, if necessary, draft legislation to implement its recommendations.

Approved April 23, 1985.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS

The Joint Interim Subcommittee on Vo-techs/Job Training recommends that the 50th Legislature:

1. Continue and intensify general support for postsecondary vocational-technical education in Montana; and
2. Enact LC 164, a bill to transfer the governance of the five vo-tech centers from the Office of Public Instruction to the Board of Regents of Higher Education. The main provisions of the draft legislation include:
 - a. an effective date of July 1, 1987, for the transfer of general governance duties;
 - b. allowing vo-tech employees to remain employees of the various school districts until July 1, 1989;
 - c. retaining a local contribution to vo-tech funding by increasing the mandatory levy for each county with a vo-tech center from 1-1/2 mills to 3 mills;
 - d. allowing employees of the vo-techs to retain certain rights and benefits upon becoming employees of the Board of Regents;
 - e. allowing the school district boards of trustees to negotiate with the state for the sale or lease of vo-tech facilities.

INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY RESOLUTION ISSUES

House Joint Resolution 52 directed a study of state governance and funding of Montana's five postsecondary vocational-technical centers (vo-techs). The resolution was the product of extensive, but unsuccessful, consideration of increased state control of the vo-tech system prior to and during the 1985 legislative session. Testimony received during that time and the study resolution both stressed the following assumptions as reasons for an investigation of unifying the vo-tech centers into a comprehensive state-governed and state-financed system:

- The current governance of all postsecondary vocational education is so fragmented (among the vo-tech centers, the Office of Public Instruction, local high school boards of trustees, the Board of Regents, and community colleges) as to inhibit the efficiency, goals, and potential of that educational opportunity;
- Financing for the vo-tech centers is in increasing jeopardy for the following reasons: federal funding is changing and diminishing; the Legislature is reluctant to increase funding when there is no unified method of accountability; and the local school boards are having difficulty promoting local property tax funding for both the centers and for elementary and secondary education;
- The vo-tech governance and funding structure may not be flexible or responsive enough to meet the needs of employers and potential students or to cooperate with any economic development programs within or beyond the state; and

- State governance and funding of vo-tech centers has the potential for creating a more efficient postsecondary vocational-technical education system to address the funding crisis and to meet any demand for well-trained workers who can contribute to Montana's economic development.

As will be shown in the following portion of this report, the governance, financing, and administration of vo-tech center education has been a concern for the Montana Legislature and its agencies during the past eight years. During this concentration on improving or altering the vo-tech system, the issues raised in the study resolution have continued to surface and are, at this time, amplified by further reductions and changes in federal funding, the state's continual focus on attracting economic development, and substantial losses in state revenue that were forecast during the study process.

A HISTORY AND STATUS OF MONTANA'S VO-TECH CENTER SYSTEM

Introduction

This report section is a summary of the following background information prepared in order to begin addressing the vo-tech governance and funding issues in the adopted study plan and the study resolution:¹

- II. Powers and Duties of Governance Components and Other Agencies

I. REVIEW OF LEGISLATIVE INVOLVEMENT IN VO-TECH
GOVERNANCE AND FUNDING

1939 to 1968...The State Board of Education, acting as the State Board for Vocational Education, designated and governed vocational training centers sponsored by various high school districts for high school and older students.²

The Superintendent of Public Instruction acted as executive officer to the Board for purposes of administering state and federal laws and regulations.

1969...Legislation strengthened state control by providing that program and budget approval for all postsecondary vocational-technical education rested with the State Board for Vocational Education and that center designation was dependent upon legislative direction. Local administration of postsecondary vocational education programs remained with appropriate local school boards or higher education governing boards. The Legislature designated the five current centers and changed the finance structure to include more direct state funding and a one-mill levy in each county with a center.³

1973...In coordination with the intent of the Constitutional Convention⁴ and the structure of the 1972 Montana Constitution, the Legislature designated control over high school and vo-tech center education to the Board of Public Education and designated control over community college and university system vocational education programs to the Board of Regents.⁵

1975...The Legislature attempted to resolve the dual governance situation by designating the umbrella board, the State Board of Education, as the State Board of Vocational Education. A committee within the State Board would administer all vocational education and hire an executive officer.⁶

The law was effective for only a few months before the Montana Supreme Court declared it an unconstitutional function of the State Board of Education.⁷

1977...A legislative attempt to place all levels of vocational education under the Board of Public Education failed and led to an interim study resolution on the question of governance of all vocational education.⁸

1978...The interim study by the Legislative Council's Subcommittee on Education concentrated on governance structures for the vo-tech centers and recommended two options, both of which placed ultimate governance of vo-techs under the Board of Regents. One model created a strictly state system and the other option was similar to the community college governance structure.⁹

1979...The Legislature debated the study options extensively, but finally placed state administration of the vo-tech centers under the Superintendent of Public Instruction, with local high school districts retaining certain duties over their vo-techs. That decision was aided by the fact that the Board of Regents had voted against an interest in vo-tech governance and the Board of Public Education had lobbied for total control or none at all. Also, local districts were determined to retain an interest in the centers. The Superintendent was also designated as the "sole state agent" for all vocational education, as required by federal law.¹⁰

1981...The Legislature directed the Legislative Finance Committee, in HJR 46, to study and revise statutes related to vo-tech centers, including the methods of financing the centers.¹¹

1983...The Legislature adopted the Legislative Finance Committee's recommended budget formula based on a student/FTE ratio and also created a permissive school district levy to cover additional local costs. The Finance Committee was unable to present the complete statute revision because a response from OPI was unavailable prior to the session.

1984...The Legislative Audit Committee requested a performance audit of the OPI Department of Vocational Education Services and the vocational education programs at the centers and high schools. The report was complete in December 1984.¹²

In June 1984, Representative Gene Donaldson requested Legislative Council to research various governance structures and to begin preparing draft legislation on a state-controlled vo-tech system. Representative Donaldson arranged three ad hoc meetings with interested persons (vo-tech directors, school district trustees, vo-tech staff members) to receive suggestions and to establish commitment to a new system.

1985...Representative Donaldson's House Bill 18, introduced to the 1985 Legislature, provided for a new state board of postsecondary vocational education that would operate under the Board of Regents. The new board would appoint center directors, hire an executive officer, adopt course standards, anticipate needs of business and industry, lease or buy district buildings, and perform other duties.

After an initial hearing, a subcommittee of the House Education and Cultural Resources Committee was appointed to analyze the legislation. The subcommittee spent 12 hours in work sessions with various interested persons to address concerns over employee rights, the role of the Board of Regents, effective dates of the legislation, and new funding sources.

The amended version passed from the House Education Committee made the new board effective 1½ years prior to state control of the centers to allow for negotiation of employee concerns and other transitional matters. The House passed HB 18 to the Senate without a funding mechanism, although a 2-mill statewide levy had been debated.

The Senate Education and Cultural Resources Committee approved the bill. However, objections to the concept of total state control and a lack of consensus on a funding scheme caused the legislation to be indefinitely postponed on the Senate floor.

Senator J. D. Lynch also introduced a comprehensive vo-tech governance bill, SB 172, that would have placed the centers under a state board allocated to the Board of Regents but would have allowed local districts to hire the personnel and retain ownership of the center facilities. The bill was tabled in committee. The Legislature also failed to act on the vo-tech statute revision, HB 849, that was finally submitted by the Legislative Finance Committee.

For a summary of federal involvement in vocational education in Montana and an explanation of the current requirements of the 1985 Carl D. Perkins Act which provides federal funding, see the report in reference note 1.¹³

III. FINANCIAL STATUS OF THE VO-TECH SYSTEM

The various revenue sources for the vo-techs include student tuition, county millage, federal vocational education funds, interest from the education trust fund of the coal severance tax, the state general fund, and an optional local voted millage. Table 1 illustrates the history of these funding sources for fiscal years 1980 to 1987. (The chart does not include the 5% reduction in general fund support for FY 87 approved by the Legislature in the June 1986 Special Session.)

All sources but the voted millage are appropriated by the Legislature. For the purpose of showing changes in the funding picture, the voted millage is presented as actual expenditures from that possible source rather than the amount originally requested by the school district in voted millage. The funding collected by a district through a voted levy request is available for use by the local vo-tech center, but center directors must seek budget approval for access to the fund, and thus collections may not match with actual expenditures.

The following provides additional information on each legislatively appropriated funding source, with special emphasis on legislative rationale for the current biennium appropriation.¹⁴

Tuition

The Legislature established the tuition revenue estimate at a level which would require each full-time equivalent student to pay $564 for three quarters in fiscal year (FY) 1986 and $593 in FY 1987. The Superintendent has the authority to set tuition rates, and therefore has increased tuition from $180 a quarter for FY 1985 to $188 for each quarter in the current school year. Tuition per quarter in the 1980-81 school year was $80 and has therefore increased by 135% to this year. Tuition and fees have grown to 17% of the appropriated funding in FY 1987 from 10.5% in FY 1981.

County Millage

Section 20-7-324, MCA, requires the county commissioners in each county in which a vo-tech center is located to levy 1-1/2 mills for the maintenance and support of the center. Language in HB 500, Laws of 1985, authorizes the Superintendent to transfer any collection of county millage revenue that exceeds the appropriated millage amount for a center to those centers whose counties may experience an under-collection of anticipated millage. HB 500 also requires a general fund reversion of any millage over the appropriated amount to prevent additional revenue from providing budget increases. The estimated millage represents a 3.5% increase over the previous biennium. As Table 1 indicates, county millage has remained approximately 10% of total appropriated amount for FY 1980 to FY 1987.

Federal Funds

The amount of federal funding, available through the new Carl D. Perkins Act, decreased by 31.7% from the 1985 biennium. The Legislature replaced the reduced funding with general funds of $376,990 in FY 1986 and $371,853 in FY 1987. In the event that more federal funding becomes available, HB 500 provides that for each additional federal dollar, 50¢ of general fund must revert. The actual center expenditures for FY 86 in Table 3 indicate that the centers did not choose to spend all the federal funding available. The federal dollars must be used for "new and innovative" programs only.

Education Trust Interest

Section 90-6-211, MCA, was amended by the 1983 Legislature to authorize the use of 10% of the interest from the coal tax-funded education trust fund, which was formerly reinvested into the trust, for operating costs incurred by the vo-techs and adult basic education programs. The Legislature funded the Adult Basic Education program at its FY 1984 level plus inflation and allocated the remaining interest funds to the vo-tech centers. The amount represents a 41.3% increase over the FY 1985 biennium, which was the initial year for this source.

General Fund

When all other available revenue sources have been estimated, the general fund portion is calculated. Pay plan increases for center employees, allowed by HB 500 and Chapter 740, Laws of 1985, are included in the general fund appropriation. Even though the general fund dollar amounts have increased steadily since FY 1980, that source's portion of the total appropriated amount has dropped from 60.29% in FY 1980 to 53.49% in FY 1987.

Table 2 shows the student enrollment history for each center for FY 1980 to 1987 in terms of full-time equivalent (FTE) students used for appropriations calculations. Helena has maintained the highest enrollment and Butte's enrollment has increased the most for the period.

Table 3 shows the actual center expenditures for FY 86 and the percent that each funding source is of the total funds expended. The centers used significantly less in general funds and federal funds than was appropriated. (See Table 1.) The voted total amount used by all the centers increased by 27% from FY 85.

IV. PROGRAMS AND SERVICES AT THE VO-TECH CENTERS

The programs available at the vo-techs can be categorized into the occupational areas presented in Table 4: agriculture, distributive (management, merchandising), health, home economics, office, and trade and technical.¹⁵ Table 4 indicates which vo-techs offer these various programs for the 1985-1986 school year and how many quarters of course work are necessary for completion and certification in each program. The table also illustrates such program offerings at the three community colleges and at Northern Montana College and whether certificates or degrees are offered upon completion at those institutions.

Services to students at the centers include counseling, financial aid assistance, testing, basic skill improvement, and job placement activities. According to ARM 10.41.121, each vo-tech must have at least one qualified vocational guidance counselor and must provide occupational information and job placement services.

Students who satisfactorily complete an approved program are eligible for a completion/competency certificate. Students must have "C" grades in all required courses of a program to earn a certificate. Course work or program completion is not transferable as college credit at Montana institutions of higher education.

The teaching faculty and the directors of the centers must hold teaching certificates that meet the minimum qualifications as determined by the Board of Public

Education's certification standards. This is in accordance with the statutory provision in 20-4-201(1), MCA, that the trustees of any school district may employ as a teacher only a person who holds a valid teaching certificate, and with 20-7-301, MCA, which allows the Superintendent to establish instructor and director qualifications. The Class 4 vocational certificate acknowledges work experience, apprenticeship training, or completion of approved vocational-technical programs, especially for certification of trade and industrial, technical, and health instructors. The vast majority of vo-tech instructors do, however, have at least a bachelors degree in their teaching area.¹⁶

VI. THE ROLE AND SCOPE OF VO-TECHS

In adopting a study plan, the Subcommittee specifically requested an investigation of the role and scope of the vo-tech centers within the Montana education system and a discussion of the role and scope of other postsecondary institutions offering vocational education. There are no specific constitutional or statutory references to the role and scope of the vo-techs, but an investigation into general education governance and the role and scope of other institutions can help formulate some assumptions about public policy intent for the vo-tech system.

Prior to the vocational education governance change in 1979, a constitutional and statutory structure was in place that mandated a coordinated effort at the state board level for designing the role and scope of all institutions offering vocational education. The Board of Public Education and the Board of Regents were to meet as the State Board of Education to plan, coordinate, and evaluate policies and programs for the state's educational systems. As was noted in the 1974 report of the Montana Commission on Postsecondary Education, it was essential that the two boards work closely and regularly together to systematically review and plan postsecondary vocational education to avoid program duplication and inefficient use of available funding.¹⁷ When the Superintendent was designated as governing agent for vocational education and the vo-techs, there were no specific provisions for coordination with the other state boards and institutions, as envisioned by the Constitution's framers.

As mandated in 20-7-301, MCA, the Superintendent has adopted and administered "policies to effect the orderly development of a system of vocational education". The statutory language enabling these policies (administrative rules) was mainly designed for execution of the Superintendent's role as "sole state agent" for proper use of federal vocational money and for his duties over the vo-tech centers. The Superintendent's involvement with vocational education at other postsecondary institutions is limited to approving programs that seek federal funds through the "state plan", which must meet with federal approval. The Board of Regents retains control over the general role and scope of vocational education for the university and community college systems.

In the absence of any legislative directive, the Superintendent alone has the power to design the role and scope of the vo-tech system but may do so within certain limitations. The Legislature can control the role and scope of the vo-tech system through the appropriation process. Another limitation is the fact that the vo-techs cannot grant degrees to students without program approval by the Board of Regents, nor can vo-tech students expect other units of higher education to accept transfer of vo-tech course work for credit. Also, the Superintendent's power to direct the scope of the vo-techs is limited by the fact that each center initiates its program choices, upon approval by the local district board of trustees. On the other hand, the local districts have very little to say about the role and scope for their centers in that final program approval rests with the Superintendent and most budget control rests with the Legislature.

The following statements on the role and scope of postsecondary institutions offering vocational education are from the Office of Public Instruction's Postsecondary Center Policy and Procedures Handbook:

The postsecondary vocational-technical centers should have the primary function of offering educational and training programs necessary for the semi-skilled, skilled, and technical trainees to advance to apprenticeship programs, job entry or re-entry or other types of gainful employment. Any vocational program should be conducted with the express authorization of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction as the state governing agency.

The community college should have the primary function of offering course work that leads to certificate and/or the associate degree or a variety of sub-professional job entry skills with the express authorization of the state governing agency.

The college and university units should have the primary function of offering programs that lead to the baccalaureate and/or higher degree in the training of teachers, counselors, directors, etc. for vocational education. Programs in associate degree and sub-professional areas should be limited to those expressly authorized by the state governing agency.

In summary, the current role and scope of the vo-tech system for offering vocational-technical education has developed within boundaries that were not set as part of a grand design for state educational systems but, rather, by boundaries that exist because of the dual governance structure for vo-techs and the prevailing powers of other postsecondary institutions.

ISSUES AND OPTIONS PRESENTED

At the third Subcommittee meeting, members considered the following issues and options concerning vo-tech governance and funding:

I. ISSUES:

Should the current state/local governance structure for vo-techs be changed to a more centralized system?

If vo-techs were placed under the Board of Regents in some manner, who should be the "sole state agent" for federal funding purposes?

Should the governance of all postsecondary vocational education be under one governing board or at least coordinated among governing bodies to a greater degree than it is currently?

Comments:

The current system is centralized in that the Superintendent of Public Instruction has the authority for approval of vo-tech programs and budgets, along with authority over program evaluation, director and instructor qualifications, student tuition, and guidelines for center administration. Although the school districts with vo-techs are subject to state laws and the policies of the Superintendent with regard to vo-tech administration, they are allowed to employ the center director and staff and to recommend budgets and programs. The district board may approve and submit to the electors a budget in excess of legislative appropriations.

Advantages to the present system, as expressed in testimony, include: local boards are vehicles for local program goals and interests; OPI has the opportunity to combine administrative duties for secondary and postsecondary vocational education; local taxpayers have an avenue for input; and the chain of authority is actually more simple than that of many states.

Disadvantages of present system include: numerous budget and program approval levels decrease flexibility in meeting immediate and long-term needs; employee collective bargaining and the tenure laws may hamper program and budget flexibility; financial accounting practices of the state and districts can vary widely; vo-tech directors must answer to two different authorities; and final authority for the direction and management of the vo-techs is vested in single elected official.

There is no clear mandate for the coordination, planning, and evaluation of both vo-tech education and university system vocational education at a state board level. The higher education units must comply with the rules of the sole state agent (Superintendent) for use of federal funds, but the Superintendent is not bound by statute or constitution to consult or coordinate with the systems under the Board of Regents or with the State Board of Education.

The Superintendent will continue to have duties with regard to secondary vocational education. If governance shifts to higher education, the designation of the sole state agent might be determined by the level of education which serves the most vocational students and uses the largest portion of federal funds.

Options Discussed:

1. Direct and total governance by new sub-board under the Board of Regents.
2. Governance shared by school district boards and a sub-board under the Regents, in which:
 - a. School district retains all current duties; or
 - b. School district retains control only over facilities and employees covered by collectively bargained contract.
3. Under the OPI "Strategy for Reform" model, the Superintendent retains current authority and meets regularly with local boards that are comprised of elected and appointed members.
4. Direct governance by Board of Regents, with only local advisory board.
5. Governance shared by elected vo-tech boards (modeled after community college districts) and a state board:
 - a. Local board elected from a local district only; or
 - b. State is divided into 5 districts for election of local boards.
6. Make centers extensions of Northern Montana College or extensions of various university units.

7. Seek voter approval for new constitutional state board to govern the vo-techs.
8. Governance by new state officer (statutory or constitutional) who answers to the Board of Regents.

II. ISSUE:

If a new governance structure is chosen, should all districts be required to join the system?

Comments:

A school district could be allowed to continue operating its local vo-tech. The district could be allowed to share some of funding sources of the new vo-tech system or be required to come to the Legislature with a separate request for funds.

Options Discussed:

1. Require all current centers to join any new governance system.
2. Allow current districts the choice to join a new system.

III. ISSUE:

Regardless of a governance change, who should share in the funding of the vo-techs and to what degree?

Comments:

The total voted levy portion of funding for all centers has increased, without additional local control, from 1% to 17% in the last six years. State general funds have provided over half of all funding since 1979; county millage has steadily provided about 10%. There is a prediction that federal funds will diminish.

Only the five school districts and the counties with vo-techs contribute property tax funding to the centers, which are available to all students of the state on an equal basis in that tuition is the same for all state residents. However, the vo-tech counties and cities do derive some economic benefits that may offset some of the property tax burden.

Some local school boards express difficulty with promoting property tax funding for both the vo-techs and for elementary and secondary education.

The OPI "Strategy for Reform" suggests that the state should fund 75% and local sources should fund 10-15%. A statewide levy has been suggested as a possible new source. One statewide mill would yield over $2 million.

Options Discussed:

1. Maintain current contribution sources and levels.
2. Increase state contribution level by:
 - a. Increasing funding from education trust fund of coal tax;

- b. Increasing the general fund amount;
 - c. Earmarking a portion of coal tax.
3. Establish a statewide levy of 1 to 2 mills in support of vo-techs.

IV. ISSUE:

If a governance change is recommended that eliminates local control, should vo-tech area property taxpayers be required to contribute more than other state taxpayers might be required to pay?

Comments:

The vo-tech cities and counties will still derive some economic benefit from those institutions. Requiring an extra contribution might be linked to arrangements for transfer of vo-tech facilities, such as an exemption for continuing to pay off facility bonds. An extra local contribution could reduce the amount of a statewide levy.

Options Discussed:

1. No extra contribution from local area.
2. Require at least one-half mill more from local area than the levy for other counties.
3. Exempt from extra millage any facility bonds or SIDs that district is willing to pay off, with option for future state acquisition.

V. ISSUE:

Regardless of a governance change, should all or some vo-tech students be required to contribute a greater share of the cost of their education?

Comments:

Tuition and required fees for a quarter at university system units is almost double the full-time student tuition at the vo-techs. Tuition at the community colleges varies, but generally in-district students pay less and out-of-district students pay more than vo-tech students pay. Tuition and fees accounted for 16% of appropriated funding for the vo-techs in FY 86; this funding source has increased from 10% in 1986. In FY 84-85, one-third of all vo-tech students indicated that their county of residence was not the county where they were attending school.

Student FTE enrollment has been consistently close to 2,550 from FY 82 to FY 85. The October 1986 student count indicated an enrollment drop of 250, with Missoula and Helena each losing around 100 students.

There are indications that federal student aid may decline and that may influence student ability to attend and to pay higher tuition.

The OPI "Strategy for Reform" suggests that tuition be set as a percentage of the average instructional and support costs.

Options Discussed:

1. No significant change in tuition rate.

2. Increase tuition for all students.
3. Set tuition for out-of-district students at higher rate than district students if local board is involved in governance.
4. Set the tuition as a percentage of the average instruction and support costs.

VI. ISSUE:

Regardless of a change in governance or funding, should the funding formula used by the Legislature allow for more flexibility in program development and for start-up money for innovative programs?

Comments:

The FTE-based budget formula has been criticized for not considering interim funding for quick-start or other new projects. Many states that are promoting economic development through coordination with educational facilities are providing a funding pool separate from regular budgets.

The OPI "Strategy for Reform" suggests making federal dollars discretionary for expansion, innovative programs, responses to one-time industry needs, equipment upgrades, or service to special populations.

Options Discussed:

1. No change in funding plan; appropriation will absorb new program needs.

2. Create special fund for grants to types of programs named above.

VII. ISSUE:

Regardless of governance or funding changes, are there vo-tech program concerns that need to be addressed by legislative mandate or by administrative policy?

Comments:

The following are program concerns that have been discussed to date:

1. Program duplication among centers.
2. Program duplications among the centers, community colleges, and the university system units.
3. Granting of associate degrees at vo-techs.
4. Transfer of credits to other state education units.
5. Flexibility in program addition or deletion.
6. Need for programs that will encourage or coincide with state economic development plans or individual business or industry endeavors.
7. Equipment upgrades.

Options Discussed:

1. Designate which centers will offer certain general program areas.
2. Create governance structure with duty to control duplication among all postsecondary units.
3. Encourage articulation among postsecondary units and a system for acceptance of credits.
4. Encourage incentives for private donations of state-of-the-art equipment.
5. Allow vo-techs to grant associate degrees.

VIII. ISSUE:

Regardless of a governance or funding change, are there state/local administrative concerns that need to be addressed?

Comments:

The following are administrative concerns that have been discussed to date:

1. Adequate curriculum review and development.
2. Teacher certification follow-up.
3. Adequate needs assessments.
4. Adequate job placement and cooperation with agencies concerned with employment.

IX. ISSUE:

If direct state governance of the centers is recommended, who should assume responsibility for center facilities?

Comments:

The OPI "Strategy for Reform" suggests state assumption of existing facilities into the Department of Administration system, along with assurances to districts with bond obligations that proper repair and maintenance will occur to protect the local investment. A 1972 Washington State Supreme Court decision allowed the state to transfer to a new state board and community college system all school district assets that had been acquired for operation of local community colleges. The state was not required to reimburse the districts based on the ruling that the Legislature had originally allowed school districts to create the colleges for a state purpose.

Options Discussed:

1. Allow for flexibility among districts for the following options:
 - a. Donation of facilities to state;
 - b. Lease facilities to state;
 - c. State takes over any payments;
 - d. State purchases for any equity.

2. Require uniform policy for all vo-techs.
3. Allow renewable options for districts.
4. State appropriates facilities without reimbursement.

X. ISSUE:

If school districts are removed from governance structure, what transition measures should be established regarding employee salaries and benefits under a new system?

Comments:

House Bill 18 of the 1985 session allowed 1-1/2 years for negotiation with a new governance authority before center employees were to become state employees. Employees felt they would need this time to establish new bargaining agents and the new governing authority would need time to develop pay plans and to classify center employees.

The OPI "Strategy for Reform" calls for establishment of task forces on instructional and administrative/support staffs to define systemwide pay and benefit plans; the task forces would recommend statutory changes.

Vo-tech instructional staffs have concerns about whether they would lose tenure rights. The fair termination process within the current tenure laws could be specifically guaranteed or allowed as a collective bargaining issue.

Options Discussed:

1. Allow at least one year for district employees to negotiate with new governing authority prior to becoming state employees.
2. Purchase existing contract for a period of years.
3. State board or new local board assumes accumulated leave benefits of employees.
4. Governing authorities must provide comparable salary and benefit package, with or without a freeze on negotiated improvements for a period of years;
5. Institute specific fair termination procedures or a type of tenure.

XI. ISSUE:

What should be the duties be for any new board that is established?

Comments:

The following options were duties listed for the new state board in House Bill 18:

Options Discussed:

1. Prevent unnecessary duplication in center programs.

2. Adopt course standards.
3. Appoint center directors.
4. Establish qualifications for faculty and administrative personnel.
5. Appoint a commissioner of postsecondary vocational-technical education.
6. Adopt budget requests.
7. Provide for education and training outside of the center in the private sector when the center cannot provide certain types of education and training.
8. Provide, when desirable, for the education of students at the center by private sector persons who have skills and knowledge that the center's faculty does not have.
9. Provide a means for the transfer of course credits between centers and other institutions of higher education.
10. Adopt rules to implement the powers and duties of the Board of Regents.

SUBCOMMITTEE DELIBERATIONS

The following chronology is designed to highlight the steps of the study process, acknowledge major testimony, list the reports presented to the Subcommittee, and document Subcommittee action on the study issues. All reports, written testimony, and minutes are on file at the Montana Legislative Council.

First Meeting--October 4, 1985

1. Staff presented a study plan and work design for HJR 52. The Subcommittee approved the plan after including as a study topic the role and scope of vocational education at other Montana higher education institutions. Staff also presented a report on legislative involvement in vo-tech governance and funding from 1939 to present. The Subcommittee also requested an examination of the constitutionality of current vo-tech governance.
2. Interested persons and organizations voiced support for the study design. Dennis Lerum, Director of the Missoula Vocational-Technical Center, offered written testimony on various operational problems that exist for postsecondary vo-techs when they are attached to school districts.

Second Meeting--November 25, 1985

1. Staff presented a report on the history and status of the vo-tech center system. John MacMaster, staff attorney, reviewed for the Subcommittee the constitutional validity of the current governance authority of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

2. Staff of the Office of the Legislative Auditor reviewed the substance and recommendations of a 1984 performance audit on the efficiency and effectiveness of vocational education programs at the five centers. The directors of the centers and OPI discussed their responses to the various recommendations.
3. On behalf of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Gene Christiaansen, Assistant Superintendent for Vocational Education Services, presented a strategy for reform of the vo-tech system. The report suggested the Superintendent as the sole state governing agent, along with locally elected governing boards that would be separate from the school district boards. The local board would be given taxing authority for partial funding of each local center.

Third Meeting--February 14, 1986

1. Various vo-tech center directors and school board trustees responded in writing and in person to a Subcommittee questionnaire on local board preferences for governance and funding changes.
2. The Subcommittee made a recommendation to the Legislature that the state continue and intensify general support for vocational-technical education in Montana.

3. The Subcommittee requested governance models from the Office of Public Instruction, the Board of Regents, and local school districts.
4. The Subcommittee discussed and voted on the various governance alternatives in parts I and II of Issues and Options Checklist. The following summarizes that action:
 - a. All members agreed that a change in governance was needed;
 - b. The vote was tied on whether the current school boards and a new state board should share control;
 - c. There was no support for total and direct governance by a state board or creation of a new constitutional board to govern only the vo-techs;
 - d. The Subcommittee did not rule out options for placing the vo-techs under units of the university system, or governance by a state officer who would answer to a state board, or a system similar to that of the community colleges;
 - e. There was agreement that all postsecondary vocational education should be under one board or at least coordinated to a greater degree than it is currently; and

f. The members favored allowing districts the option of participating in any new governance system.

Fourth Meeting--May 2, 1986

1. The Subcommittee voted on each of the governance models presented by OPI, the Board of Regents, and other interested persons:
 - a. The members achieved consensus only on the Billings school board proposal of a sub-board under the Regents, with local boards separate from school boards;
 - b. Acceptance of the following models failed on tie votes: the Regents' models for branch campuses attached to university system units and for direct control by the Regents; the OPI model for a state board under the superintendent, with local advisory boards; the model by Paul Justice, Helena Vo-tech teacher, which suggested a Regents' sub-board to govern with local school boards; and the model by Jim Whooley, Great Falls vo-tech instructor, which suggested an appointed board with OPI staff support and division of the state into five vo-tech regions for purposes of electing local governing boards.

Fifth Meeting--November 7, 1986

1. Gene Christiaansen presented an update on fall 1986 enrollment at the vo-techs and the Governor's proposed vo-tech budget for the next biennium. Enrollment is down by 255 students and the Governor's Budget Office suggested as much as an 11% decrease from the previous fiscal year. OPI suggested a tuition increase from $225 to $235 per quarter.

2. Eric Feaver, Montana Education Association, said that in a poll of MEA members, most favored placing the vo-techs under the Regents and that MEA did not fear unfair treatment of employees with a governance change.
3. Various school board trustees and vo-tech directors stressed that the vo-techs may face more serious financial problems unless positive change occurs.
4. On a motion by Senator Lynch, the Subcommittee voted to request draft legislation to place the vo-techs under the Regents and to leave the employees under the local school boards, with the suggestion that the Legislature review the situation in two years. The motion included the continuation of the mandatory county levy of 1-1/2 mills and the possibility of further local funding not to exceed 10% of the local vo-tech budgets. House Bill 18 of the 1985 session would provide additional details for the governance change. The Subcommittee requested further information on current local funding levels. Staff was requested to present the draft legislation at a brief meeting on November 15, 1986.

Sixth Meeting--November 15, 1986

1. The Subcommittee met to approve draft legislation, LC 164, to be included in the Subcommittee's final report to the 50th Legislature.
2. The Subcommittee discussed the transfer of employee benefits and seniority rights and an effective date for the proposed legislation.
3. On a motion by Representative Gene Donaldson, the Subcommittee voted to amend the draft legislation (LC 164) to allow the employees to remain under the school district board for two school years and to include a provision for transferring employee years of service along with other benefits that had been included in HB 18 from last session. The motion also called for amending the draft bill to cap the county levy at 3 mills. The motion carried. See Appendix A for LC 164, the draft bill, as amended.
4. Senator Lynch offered, as a minority opinion for the final report, the original provision in Section 14 of LC 164 that allowed the employees to remain school district employees for an indefinite period. Representatives Jerry Driscoll and Dan Harrington joined in support of the minority report at a later date. See Appendix B.

Subcommittee Minority Report

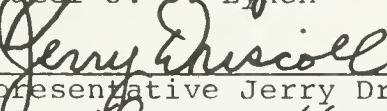

Three members of the Subcommittee, Senator J. D. Lynch and Representatives Jerry Driscoll and Dan Harrington, submitted a minority opinion on the provisions of the recommended legislation, LC 164, that concern the status of vo-tech employees under the suggested governance transfer. The minority opinion holds that the vo-tech employees who are covered by a collectively bargained contract should remain employees of the local school districts that now share governance of the centers. The minority report supports the following amendment to LC 164:

1. Page 5, line 10.
Strike: Section 5
2. Page 27, line 24.
Insert: (2) Subject to the requirements of laws of the state and the policies and rules of the board of regents, the board of trustees of the local school district in which a vocational-technical center is located shall employ all administrative personnel, faculty members, and employees for the vocational-technical center that are covered by a collectively bargained contract, according to the policies and procedures of the board of trustees.

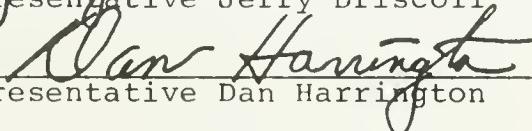

Signed,

Senator J. D. Lynch

Representative Jerry Driscoll
